A Night Of Celebration For Diversity And The Law

By Michelle D. Jew, Newsletter Committee Co-Chair

Diversity in the law profession was celebrated by over a hundred guests who mingled at the Advancing Diversity Fair, hosted by Burnham Brown and co-sponsored with AABA, FBANC, LaRaza, and the Charles Houston Bar Associations on September 17, 2009.

California State Bar President Holly Fujie discussed the role of the Bar and of lawyers in promoting diversity in the profession to a packed room.

"Burnham Brown's Advancing Diversity event was even more successful this year than last because we had a larger turn out and we also had a special address by recent past president of the California State Bar, Holly Fujie," said Susana Gonzales, attorney for Burnham Brown and Deputy Regional President for Region 17 of the Hispanic National Bar Association (HNBA). "Ms. Fujie made some excellent points about the value of a diverse workforce in the legal profession. It was great to hear these words of wisdom from someone of Ms. Fujie's stature because I think we all need to be reminded of the multiple reasons why diversity is critical to success in the legal field."

The event featured an ethnic buffet of tasty treats and a hosted bar of lively spirits for guests to enjoy as they met up with old friends, made new friends, or for those who have been recently laid off, an opportunity to network for job leads.

The event was attended by representatives in the business community, minority bar associations, lawyers, judges, and law students. Some of the guests seen mingling at the Diversity Fair included Honorable David Krashna, Honorable Winifred Smith and Honorable Leo Dorado of the Alameda Superior Court.

"The Diversity Fair at Burnham Brown took me by surprise. Right off the elevator, I was warmly greeted and welcomed by complete strangers. I was very impressed by the friendly atmosphere at Burnham Brown and the large turnout by other minority lawyers," said Suzette Torres, AABA member and attorney for Bardellini, Straw, Cavin & Bupp LLP. "It is refreshing to see a firm take the forefront to recognize minorities in the legal community. I walked away with a sense of pride and a handful of business cards."

The Asian American Bar Association's 2009 Career Day

By Ivana Fedor, AABA Employment
Committee Co-Chair

A record breaking number of law students and attorneys gathered at USF School of Law for the 2009 Asian American Bar Association's Career Day on Saturday, September 19, 2009. Approximately one hundred junior attorneys and law students participated in the program which included mock-interviews whereby both junior attorney and law student interviewees received one-on-one feedback from volunteer attorney interviewers.

The event showcased an all-star panel moderated by Employment Committee member Marina Sarmiento Feehan discussing job search strategies and career planning for their respective sectors. The speakers featured Stephanie Chen from the Greenling Institute, recent San Francisco County Superior Court appointee the Honorable Andrew Cheng, Lawrence Chew, in house counsel from Verigy and Clarissa Kang from Trucker Huss.

Priya Mercado from Update Legal and new Employment Committee member Betty Chia held small break out sessions for ad-hoc resume review. A networking lunch capped off the day.

A big thanks to USF School of Law APALSA student volunteers: Katherine Chu, Natalie Chu, Hannah Chung, Bonnie Fong, Allison Low, Michael Marcelo, Maria Villafuerte, Alexandra Wong and APALSA President, Carlo Miranda.

The event would not be possible without the generosity of volunteer attorney mock interviews: Deok Keun Matthew Ahn, Billy Chan, Scott Chan, Isabel Choi, Emi Gusukuma, Mo Hill, Ben Hur, Clarissa Kang, Hanesther Kim, Jason Lee, Melissa Lor, Damien Morozumi, Jennifer Oh, Saswati Paul, Selina Shek, Irene Shin, David Sohn, and Ayumi Urabe.

Thank you to Kirkland & Ellis LLP for their generous sponsorship of this event and USF School of Law for providing the event venue.

Finally, a big thanks to the all-star employment committee that organized the event: Betty Chia, co-chair Ivana Fedor from the California Secretary of State, Marina Sarmiento Feehan from the USF School of Law, co-chair Elizabeth Loh from Trucker Huss and Miriam Kim from Munger Tolles & Olson LLP. We hope to see you next year!
